Khabbar Follies

In this section, Khabbar looks into the Konkani community and anything and everything that is Konkani from a Konkani point of view. The names will never be published but geographic location will be identified in general terms.

There is no doubt in my mind that Khabbar is a part & parcel of life of Konkanis in North America. In fact, Khabbar has developed a special relation with most of the Konkani families and here are some examples of those close encounters of a different kind.....

It is a proud fact that Khabbar dues have remained the same ($15.00/yr) for a long time that I can remember. Irrespective of the economic conditions, the Advisory Committee of Khabbar has run a tight ship and strived hard to keep the subscription rate unchanged. Also some families give more than their fair share. Khabbar considers them as premium subscribers. These subscribers get their name published in Khabbar and also get the Khabbar Mailing List sorted by States.

Recently, a check for a good amount was received from this family in TX. I called in to thank the family for their generous contribution to Khabbar. When asked why they contributed more than their fair share, the family said, "Well, you can consider this as a stimulus package to Khabbar! Well, like the stimulus packages given to keep the economy going!!"

With these kinds of stimulus package, there is no doubt in my mind that Khabbar will be healthier than ever!

EDITORIAL

Dear Konkani family,
I hope all is well with you and your family.

This issue of Khabbar has been mailed to ALL families that have paid dues at least once since 2007. In other words, families who have not paid since 2006 will not be receiving this issue. The numbers on the mailing label clearly indicate the year/s the dues for Khabbar has been received since 2007 and if there is any error let me know.

Even in these tough economic times, the Advisory Committee of Khabbar has decided that the annual dues will remain the same at $15.00 a year and for that you get:

- Four issues of the Khabbar,
- Annual Mailing List and
- Discounted advertisement rates.

This issue has not been mailed to families that have specifically indicated that they will access eKhabbar. The on-line version of Khabbar, eKhabbar, will be on the web a quarter after mailing the hard copies.

The Khabbar Mailing List is a prized possession of our community and help me to keep it up-to-date. Send names and addresses of Konkani families that are not in the list to P. O. Box 222, Lake Jackson, TX 77566-0222, or email khabbar@hotmail.com and rest be assured that I'll "Khabbarize" them!

The Konkani Youth will be hosting the Konkani Youth Convention in 2009 in Washington DC area. Visit their website (<http://www.kyc2009.com>) to find out all the details of this great event. Extend your support to our youngsters who are doing such a great job in maintaining our culture here in North America.

Khabbar will publish all the developments and progress made by NAKA on an on-going basis. Send your constructive suggestions to any of the Directors of the NAKA Board. This quarter, the NAKA Board is busy in helping the Youth Convention in raising much needed funding for their event of the year. Please, extend your help to our youngsters. Also, the much anticipated Konkani Charitable Fund (KCF) was incorporated. More details will be published in due course of time.

When and where to hold the next Konkani Sammelan is an issue facing the community right now. Due to unavoidable circumstances, the Chicago group can not hold the Sammelan in 2010. Meanwhile, enthusiastic group from Southern California under the able leadership of Dr. Ramadas Kamath has a plan to hold the Sammelan on a cruise. In this issue, there is a reference to a questionnaire regarding this and readers are encouraged to fill out the questionnaire to make your opinion count.

The unofficial Khabbar correspondents in your area who send in the hoon Khabbars on a regular basis are doing an outstanding job. Remember, if it did not appear in Khabbar, then it did not happen in North America! If your area is not represented wholly, let me know and I'll recruit more volunteers. You can send the news items via email (khabbar@hotmail.com).

On the Quiz front, Khabbar has still remained as a champ. Only a few got the right answer to the last quarter's quiz! This quarter's quiz is so tough, that the Advisory Committee of Khabbar has decided to award the first person giving the correct solution a free subscription to Khabbar for one year!!

The progress of the ambitious project, Konkani Kendra, the Konkani Bhas Ani Sanskriti Pratistan is good. Thanks to Basti Ganapathi Shenoy who has devised a method wherein families wanting to help Konkani Bhas Ani Sanskriti Pratistan can do so with relative ease! Call him at (702)-341-6706 or email: bshenoy@cox.net if interested to extend your help for this worthy cause.

Khabbar will always publish appeals for charity free of charge but cannot collect money on behalf of any charity. Families are encouraged to send the money directly to the concerned charities. It is amazing to see so many appeals come to Khabbar on a regular basis. Khabbar firmly believes in helping our people whether it is in India or here. Join Khabbar Kares Email List if interested in helping the needy.

Hope Peace & Tranquility will prevail.

Devu Boren Karo.

Vasanth:

A little story about how Khabbar helps preserve community traditions and ties.

Since Aliza, our daughter-in-law will be entering her 7th month of pregnancy at the end of April, and since my Akka is visiting, I thought it would be nice to do a gurbini kappad for Aliza, here in Las Vegas. Except I had no idea what it entails.

So, first I "googled" it. Then called my relatives in India, then Basti Sunanda Shenoy here and cobbled together some ideas. BUT, more importantly, a few days after I thought about it, the new issue of Khabbar showed up in my mailbox. Lo and behold - there was an article by Dr. Vasudev Prabhu of Mission Viejo, CA, on the tradition of Gurbini Kappad. In it he mentioned the names of Deepa, the honoree and her husband Rajesh Prabhu, and that Rajesh had played a CD of traditional songs sung by Deepa's grandmother, during the celebration.

So.... I consulted the Khabbar mailing list, found their phone # and left Rajesh and Deepa a message. Rajesh called me back, and soon, very graciously mailed to me a copy of that CD and a related audio DVD, along with an explanation - the what and how-to of the traditional ceremony. I am now all set to do it, thanks to Khabbar.

Rajesh and Deepa Prabhu of Monterey Park, CA are an immensely gracious and generous young couple, and interested in maintaining our traditions. Such young people give me much hope for the future. I called as a total stranger, a little presumptuous, but I counted, correctly as it turns out, on the bond we share as amchis and the helpful nature of people in our community.

My thanks to everybody - Dr. Vasudev Prabhu, Deepa's grandmother, Rajesh and Deepa, and even Atul, their brand new baby son, without whom there would not have been this gurbini kappad celebration. Most of all to Khabbar.

Hi Vasanth,

Thank you for publishing my bragging about Lukie (Khabbar Vol. XXXII-1). It should have been signed by me edited by Niki. In a haste to leave for Barcelona for 3 weeks, making sure I met your dead line, I asked to Niki to edit and email what I had written on what I had witnessed and felt. And she, our super writer/editor, emailed as she had promised. And on the publication it came across as if Niki sharing her experience. I chuckled just imagining Niki taking drishti.

Would you please note that in your next publication?

Also, I would like to reserve a corner in Khabbar to share and brag about our simple pleasures in life not heeding to the gloom and doom we hear day in and day out these days.

Editor's Reply:

Khabbar regrets the error. Also, I like the idea of Grand parents bragging section and hope more grand parents will follow this lead.

Dear Vasanthmam,

Santha (Vasanthi) Rama Rau was a mainstream English writer and author, and daughter of Sir Benegal Rama Rau, a prominent Chitrapur Saraswat. She passed away recently, and her obituary came in today's New York Times. I am sending this to you, as I feel her achievement and passing away is worthy of mentioning in Khabbar. Her father was also Governor of Reserve Bank of India, and his signatures used to appear on Indian currency notes.

Regards,

Dear Vasanth,

I am very happy to advise that Konkani Association of Ontario's (KAO) 20th Anniversary celebration on the cruise was a great success! It was well-attended by KAO's members, their friends and relatives. The highlight of the event was honouring the Chief Guests (Ashok & Amita Bhatt) and the KAO's past presidents for the last 20 years.

Please accept our sincere thanks for Khabbar's advertisement in the 20th Anniversary celebrations souvenir. I have mailed a copy of the souvenir to you which you will receive soon.

We also received NAKA's ad for the souvenir. Thanks again.

Houston Area Amchigale Samaj (HAAS) conducted a Sandwich Seva on April 25th 2009. Several families that participated in the previous Sandwich Seva, found it to be an enriching and fun filled morning. Check out the video of the first event at <http://ourhaas.com/events.html> and the photos at <http://ourhaas.com/24.html>. At this event, the families and kids come together to prepare sandwiches from scratch and then prepare lunch bags consisting of sandwiches, fruits, chips, and water.

Houston Area Amchigale Samaj (HAAS) held a picnic at Cullen Park on 2nd May 2009. It was a fun event throughout the day for people of all ages. The picnic started at 9:30 am and ended around 6:30 pm.

On May 04, 2009, Nandan Nilekani, Co-Chair, Infosys was a Special Guest at the University of Toronto's Rotman Alumni Network. A few Konkans formed a part of the audience. Prof. Roger Martin, Dean, Rotman School of Management hosted the event and led Nandan in a discussion about his ideas in his book "Imagining India: The Ideas of a Renewed India" and his way of thinking which has helped him grow Infosys into a global leader in information technology.

In answering a number of questions from the host Prof. Martin as well the audience, Nandan noted that India's future depends not only on economic growth but also on reform and innovation. He noted that things are changing in India quite rapidly. India's current infrastructure revolution, quest for universal literacy, urbanization and unification bodes well for the country. On being asked "Why he is so optimistic about India?" Nandan noted that things are quite different... at the time of India's independence, the politicians were well ahead of the mass and just led the way and charted the course. It took a little while for the masses to catch up with the politicians. Now masses are well ahead of politician and well informed. Moreover, the young entrepreneurs are hungry and aggressive.

In comparing the old India with the new, he pointed out that in the past the Gandhian belief was that future of India was in the villages as a result cities did not get much needed attention. Happily, things are changing for better. India is in the middle of a huge transformational process; globalization, genuinely inclusive democracy, social security, public health, sustainable energy and renewed attention to literacy transcend political agenda and safeguard country's future.

Noting how Indians are in the forefront of business sector in numerous Asian, European and American countries, he mentioned that India has already started living global foot print. Nandan prophesized that the current "demographics" are poised either to make India the leader of next century or lead to disaster in case the challenges are not met.

The Konkani Association of Ontario (KAO) 20th Anniversary Cruise event aboard the "Northern Spirit" on Saturday, May 23, 2009 was a big success! We are sure, that the people who attended this event will remember this event for years to come! The Chief Guests were Ashok and Amita Bhatt of London, Ont.

Well attended by KAO members, their friends and relatives totaling to almost 390 persons, it was a superb evening, and unique KAO event as promised earlier. Good weather, delicious food, superb arrangements and well-managed schedule resulted in great success! The attendees enjoyed the dance too at the scintillating music played by the DJ, Bill. Applying Henna was another added attraction to the ladies and the girls who experienced the art of Punita, the Henna artist. A slide show presentation, well-organized by Prahlad Pai, was also held capturing history of KAO through a photo collection. We are glad to mention that we managed to accommodate even the "last minute requests for tickets" from our KAO members!

Our heartfelt thanks to all the KAO members, their friends and relatives who attended this event and to those members of KAO who helped us in selling the cruise tickets so quickly and efficiently. Thanks to the present Executive committee for their support, the souvenir committee for bringing out such an exclusive souvenir and all the volunteers who showed great initiative in helping us in various areas at the cruise. Thanks to Narayan Nayak of California and Kartik Kulkarni for photography and Gautam Ullal for the video-shooting and we will await superb photos and a lovely video very soon! Shanthi Mamama Bragging.....

Waiting at the commencement ceremony of Luke’s high school graduation to start, I opened the program looking for Luke’s name and amazingly found him on Diploma with Honors, Award of Merit and the most prestigious, President’s Award. He was practically on every page! With all the awards and plaque, I was most excited to see president’s award certificate with President’s Obama’s signature—what a treasure! Yeah.. my grandson Luke Lakshman Gould graduated from Cleveland Heights High School on June 1, 2009.

With Ashirvads, we are sending him off to Case Western University just five miles away.

As if that wasn’t excitement enough, the following day was Lily’s graduation. Yes, our beautiful baby, is off to Cleveland Heights High school also with a handful awards from her Roxoboro Junior High School following legacy of her two elder brothers.

Sadly, both the high school and the middle school announcers failed miserably at pronouncing Luke Lakshman and Lilavathi Marie. I guess some things never change, even with a black President.

I am proud of Meetha and Kyle for doing such a wonderful job as parents...

Best surprise I received this morning to fill me with so much happiness and pride. It’s from Kevin Baliga, son of Ganesh and Nandi Baliga. Got an email from Nandi, as follows:

"Kevin who is in 7th grade was invited by John Hopkins University (Center for Talented Youth) to take High School SAT test 6 weeks ago. Upon my insistence, Kevin took the test without any training or preparation. Surprisingly, he passed the test with high honor scores and was invited for awards ceremony last Saturday. I have attached pictures that I took at the awards ceremony. I am so happy and proud of him".

And, I am so proud of Nandi and Ganesh and thank God for blessing me with such pleasures.

Now, what I need to do is my usual, dhrashti kadche after all my praises and send my virtual hugs and ashirvads to Kevin..

Ramesh Benegal’s War Memoir

Air Commodore RAMESH BENEGAL's 's war memoir has finally been released. (Ramesh Benegal is Arvind Benegals’ uncle). It has been a long time coming, especially since he wrote the first draft circa 1980. Although one wishes that he were alive and well to witness this happening, the book will nonetheless be a treat for generations of Konkans in particular and humanity in general, to comprehend what it took to survive those incredibly challenging times ...

Synopsis:

“It all started on 7 December 1941, when Japan unleashed its surprise attack on a place called Pearl Harbor. To think that something that was happening a thousand miles away would affect the lives of so many people, including me, was unimaginable then. But it did touch my life. In fact it dictated my whole future.”

Ramesh Benegal, recipient of the Maha Vir Chakra, was born in Burma and was seventeen when the Japanese captured British-occupied Burma. He tells this extraordinary, first-person story of his career with the Indian National Army in Burma and Japan in the years from 1941 to 1945.

A series of chances lead the young Ramesh to enroll for the selection of cadets to be sent to Japan for military training at the initiative of Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose. We follow his journeys on land, sea and air as the young voice narrates in sharp and often visceral detail the experience of travelling from Burma to Thailand, Singapore and Japan. The years are long and hard and alternate between deprivation and plenty and between disaster and hope—before the turning point of the War changes everything. What opens before us is not only a war memoir but the transformation of a boy as he steepes himself in the cultures of food, behaviour, customs and the ethnic aspirations of the countries he finds himself in.

Santha Rama Rau, Wrote of India's Landscape and Psyche, Dies at 86

By Bruce Weber, As it appeared in NY Times Dated April 24, 2009

Santha Rama Rau, an Indian-born, Western-educated journalist whose work helped demystify the Indian subcontinent for American readers in the decades after World War II and India's independence, died Tuesday in Amenia, N.Y. She was 86 and lived in Amenia, in Dutchess County, and in Manhattan. The cause was cardiopulmonary failure, said her son, Jai Bowers.

Ms. Rama Rau wrote novels and adapted the E. M. Forster novel "A Passage to India" for the stage, but she was largely a travel writer, a chronicler of journeys in Asia, Africa and the former Soviet Union for publications like The New Yorker, Harper's, Holiday and The New York Times Magazine. Many of her stories, written with stylish simplicity in the first person, were collected as books that read almost as autobiography. The titles included "East of Home" (1950), "View to the Southeast" (1957) and "My Russian Journey" (1959). She also wrote an autobiography, "Gifts of Passage" (1961), that reads like almost like a travelogue.

"It is a short but extraordinarily dramatic flight," she wrote in that book, of a trip from Tashkent, Uzbekistan, to Kabul, Afghanistan. "The Hindu Kush is the wildest and most forbidding part of the Himalayas, so high that the plane flies between, not over, the mountains, and from the cabin you look up to see the snow-capped, treacherous peaks. Below you is a harsh and bony map of precipitous valleys and rocky ravines — a landscape utterly without comfort, and on too immense a scale to be anything but daunting."

Her best known works were about her home country, including "This Is India" (1953), a tour through the Indian landscape and the Indian psyche, and a Time-Life cookbook, "The Cooking of India" (1970).

"Our job — those of us lucky to have lived in these two countries — is to interpret them to one another," she said in an interview with The Wichita Beacon in Kansas after the publication of "This Is India." "If we can make ourselves — the Indians — real people to the Americans, we shall have done more than our politicians are able to do."

Vasanthi Rama Rau was born in Madras, India, on Jan 24, 1923. Her father, Sir Benegal Rama Rau, was a high-ranking civil servant in India's finance department who later became ambassador to Japan and to the United States. Her mother, Dhanvanthi Rama Rau, was a crusader for women's reproductive rights and a founder of the International Planned Parenthood Federation.

When Santha was a girl, her father was stationed in England. It was a trip back to India at 16, with her mother and her sister, Premila, that inspired her first book, "Home to India," published in 1945, shortly after she graduated from Wellesley College in Massachusetts. Though a youthful book, it immediately established the voice of an educated discoverer — observant, amused, self-deprecating, and instructive without being pedantic — that would characterize her work even when she matured:

"The first words my grandmother said to me when I returned to Bombay after 10 years' absence were, 'My dear child, where in India will we find a husband tall enough for you?'"

"'I don't think I need to worry about that for some time,' I suggested. 'I'm only 16.'"

"'That's nearly twice as old as I was on my wedding day.'"

After her 1977 marriage to Gurdon Wattles, a legal officer at the United Nations, she was known in her private life as Santha Rama Rau Wattles. He died in 1995. A previous marriage, to Faubion Bowers, a linguist and writer who was an expert on Kabuki, the stylized classical theater of Japan, ended in divorce. Both marriages afforded her the opportunity to travel widely.

"They had a vagabond type of existence," her son, Mr. Bowers, said of his parents, though he acknowledged they were affluent vagabonds.

In addition to her son, who lives in Scottsdale, Ariz., she is survived by four stepchildren: Stuart Scadron-Wattles of Seattle, Joshua Wattles of Los Angeles, Arabella Wattles Teal of Washington and Katherine Wattles of Athens; a granddaughter; and four step grandchildren.

Ms. Rama Rau's adaptation of "A Passage to India," Forster's 1924 novel about the impact of colonialism on both the British and the Indians, was endorsed by Forster himself. It played successfully on the West End in London, ran for 109 performances on Broadway in 1962 and was used by the director David Lean as source material his 1984 film. Her work on it was central to what she understood to be her responsibility, her family said — namely to explain herself and India to a world that was curious about both.

"She was such an unusual person," said her stepdaughter Ms. Teal, "that there was almost no occasion on which she didn't attract attention, just by being herself."

RAVI V. SHENOY - A Pleasant mix of tradition and modernity

By: - Amarjit Singh Anand, as published in July 2008 edition of Indian Panaroma

Engineer Ravi Shenoy believes in “contributing to the growth of the community” whether here or back home, with special emphasis on spreading “the light of knowledge through education” as he puts it.

Ravi shuns the tag of a “leader” and feels contented being a perpetual inquisitive “learner”, trying to serve the community.

Retrospectively, Mr. Shenoy reminisces that even though he did not fully comprehend, during his formative years, the intrinsic significance attached to education, religion, selfless-service, responsibility and commitment, he now holds that all the values, ethics and morals he imbibed from his parents have immensely proven to serve him in good stead, by always being the “guiding-light” in his professional and social life.

Mr. Shenoy is one of the founding members of the Society of Indo American Engineers and Architects (SIAEA) and the President-Elect of this body. Some of his goals are to see that membership drive to take the number to 1000 during his term. He remains ever desirous of prodding the youth on to equip themselves for eventually assuming leadership roles in various spheres of endeavor. He also wishes to provide exposure to young talent in many fields, offering them opportunities by way of instituting scholarships, both here and in India. The SIAEA was formed 28 years ago. For the last six years, he has served on the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors. For the four years he chaired the Committee for Technical Seminars and was an active member of various committees. Presently, he has been serving as President-Elect, and his two-year tenure as President commences in March of 2009. The Society has been rapidly growing, gaining popularity and being noticed not only in the Indian community but also in the mainstream. Ravi wants to see it as a national level organization.

Having migrated to the US in 1969, Shenoy is the Founder and President of Shenoy Engineering, P.C., a consulting engineering firm. He has over 35 years of experience in the discipline of Mechanical Engineering. He maintains direct involvement in all phases of major projects assigned to his firm, from the conceptual design to the completion of construction.

Ravi was born on January 30th 1946 in a village 20 miles from Mangalore, Karnataka, India. Mr. Shenoy belongs to a Konkani speaking Saraswat family. His ancestors originally hailed from Goa, and migrated hundreds of years ago to India’s Western Coast, south of Goa, after the Portuguese occupied Goa in the 16th century. Konkani speaking Saraswats still have temples in various parts of Goa. Since the Portuguese left India in the early 1960’s and Goa once again became part of the Indian union, many of these temples were refurbished and have now become pilgrimage sites for his community.

Of his parents, Ravi says, “My father Venkatraya Shenoy and mother Padmavathi Shenoy were very God fearing and compassionate. They raised eight kids: three girls and five boys. My father was a businessman and a natural community, who took the lead and organized the Konkani community in building a temple in their town, and he liked helping anyone he could. Neither of my parents attended secondary school, yet both understood the value of education, and encouraged all their kids to go for college education. My father, without any formal training in architecture, designed and built modern house in his hometown”.

The fact that Ravi is a consultant in the construction industry may be something that was ingrained in him in his childhood. He says, “My parents led by example, emphasizing upon the importance of community service, education and religion. They encouraged our participation in religious and community events, and social service. These values were deeply inculcated in me and all my siblings, and we find bliss in always practicing them. My father was a very disciplined and well organized person. Many a time our father didn’t have to teach us; we simply watched him and followed him”.

Ravi married Sharda Kamath, daughter of M. A. Kamath of Bombay. His father-in-law was an industrialist, philanthropist and a pillar of the Konkani community in India. Sharda Shenoy owns a successful Wedding decoration business, “Elegant Affairs”, serving Indian community for fifteen years now. Sharda and Ravi have two kids: Neal Shenoy owns 212 Media, a media and entertainment venture in New York City; and daughter, Shilpa Shenoy works for SAKS Fifth Avenue as a Marketing manager.

Ravi says, “My childhood was spent in the village I was born in near Mangalore. I had my primary education there. Our village had a large population of Catholics and all the schools were managed by the Catholic Church. The schools had good discipline. The village had a population of all denominations. Everybody got along very well. This is something that stayed with me all my life. I did relatively well during my high school days and participated in several extra-curricular activities. The turning point of my life came when Nehru, then P. M. of India, was visiting a neighboring town. We all went to see Nehru, a strong proponent of education and industrial development. He gave a memorable speech exhorting youngsters to get into engineering, to help India in its development. There was a new regional engineering college near Mangalore that had been established. That day, I made up my mind to get into engineering, and soon got enrolled in Karnataka Regional Engineering College, Surathkal, near Mangalore, now known as National Institute of Technology”. After his graduation, Ravi was accepted at Cooper Union School for Advancement of Arts and Science in New York City for a Masters Program in Engineering.

Subsequently, Ravi founded a consulting engineering firm, Shenoy Engineering, P.C. The firm specializes in the design of HVAC, Electrical Plumbing and Fire protection systems for commercial buildings. Before starting his own firm, he was a Partner for twenty four years with a large consulting firm and was in charge of numerous large, complex and challenging projects including Yankee stadium, 1998 Goodwill Games Swimming and Diving Complex, 1992 Democratic National Convention at Madison Square Garden and Times Square Subway Station. However, the projects he takes more pride in are the design of schools where the future of the country is being developed and the design of civic projects such as libraries, senior citizen centers and cultural facilities.

Ravi’s achievements include various projects as a Professional Engineer in the states of New York and New Jersey. He also held a Professorship at New York University of Continuing Education. He is a member of the American Society of Heating, Refrigeration and Air-Conditioning Engineers (ASHRAE) and member, US Green Building Council. Other organizations he has served include Konkani Sabha (as Secretary for three years) and as a member of the Global Organization of People of Indian Origin (GOPIO) and national Federation of Indian Associations (NFIA).

He says education is the key to one’s own success and growth, and that of the society. He adds, “Nobody can take away from you what you have learned”. Shenoy taught for several years at the New York University School of Continuing Education, including a course that helped architects prepare for their professional registration. He says “it is heartening to see the second generation Indians in this country excelling in the field of education”.

Ravi says, “The only way our voices can be heard in our adopted country is to get actively involved in this country’s politics. It is then that we can fight for issues that impact us. It is good to see that awareness is growing among Indians in this country. It is important for us to become an integral part of the American main stream society. At the same time we must not forget our rich Indian heritage”. He opines that integration should be encouraged, not assimilation. He adds “as ambassadors of the rich heritage of India, we should share our culture and heritage with our neighbors. We need to become part of the social fabric”.

He maintains “at work place, hard work, honesty and quality are the golden keys to success. One should not go for short cuts, because then the success would also be short-lived”. Recently, NJ Assemblyman Chivkula presented Shenoy the 2008 Professional of the Year award during an event held in Fords, NJ. Numerous awards presented to him include Times Square Subway Station Design NY Construction News; Goodwill games Swimming and Diving Complex, East Meadows, NY; Historic 41st Precinct Design; Historic 83rd Precinct Design.

Despite several accolades bestowed upon him, he remains a simple and humble man; firmly rooted in tradition; yet, a visionary with a modernistic, progressive approach.

Upcoming Konkani Events

We are proud to announce that the 2009 Konkani Youth Convention will be held in our nation's capital- Washington, D.C. from August 7-9. The purpose of this convention is to promote the interaction of Konkani youth among one another through various activities such as seminars, ice-breakers, entertainment and sight-seeing. The committee has worked tirelessly to plan a wonderful weekend for all the Konkani youth. There are currently 72 registrants and we anticipate more as details are revealed.

For our culture to remain intact for future generations in North America, we must continue the tradition of carrying out youth conventions. We hope that through these conventions, the present and future generations of Konkani youth will be brought together with a sense of cohesiveness, companionship, and a true feeling of community. We have greatly appreciated contributions from families like yours to help us continue to keep the tradition going strong among youth. We strongly encourage those who can, to make a donation to help us fund this convention. Please visit www.kyc2009.com for more information. Help us keep the Konkani spirit alive!

Konkani S sammelan – 2010 Update from Chicago

Due to the downturn in the economy, the Chicago Konkanis looked at alternatives to having a costly conventional S sammelan next year and were working on a cruise idea instead. However, after several quotes were obtained for cruises from Florida, it seemed like a better idea to have the cruise organized by a Konkani group in a port city. Fortunately such a group was found! Under the tried and tested leadership (S sammelan 2004) of Dr. Ramadas Kamath, the Southern California Konkanis have, very enthusiastically, offered to organize this first-ever Konkani Cruise. The Chicago Konkanis will still host the next S sammelan but instead of July 2010 it will be in July 2012. With so much time to plan, we assure you, it will be one S sammelan worth waiting for!

Save the Dates – Konkani Cruise – 2010 - July 5 to 9, 2010

In lieu of the 2010 S sammelan (which will be postponed to 2012 in Chicago), the Southern California Konkani Cruise Committee is arranging an exciting four-day cruise from Los Angeles, California to Ensenada, Mexico (with a stop at Catalina Island) on July 5-9, 2010.

Plan to relax with your fellow Konkanis on this unique four-day excursion! An ideal opportunity for first-time cruisers to "test the waters" with friends and family and for experienced cruisers to experience Konkani group travel! The itinerary provides for plenty of time to visit various attractions in Southern California either prior to boarding or after the ship returns to Long Beach (Disneyland, Universal Studios, Hollywood, etc.)

Arrangements also are being made to have Indian food available in the dining room for all cruise participants if desired. On board ship activities typically include a Casino, Bingo, Art Show and Auction, Pool, Fitness Center, Ping Pong, Comedy Shows, Music and Variety Shows, Youth Activities (Carnival's Kids Club), Shopping, Spa Treatments, 24/7 Food, and Shore Excursions (to Catalina Island and Ensenada, Mexico), etc. We are also trying to arrange some CME credit programs for medical professionals who attend the cruise.

Negotiations are underway with Carnival cruise line, and the current estimated cost is around $325 per person for an inside stateroom, $375 for an ocean view stateroom. Third and fourth persons in a stateroom are approximately $200 each. The price includes all meals (including Indian food).

In order to negotiate an even better deal from Carnival, we would like to have a sense of how many people might be interested in joining us. Please complete the survey on our website by July 31, 2009, so that we have a sense of how many staterooms to reserve.

Best Regards, Ramadas Kamath and the Konkani Cruise Committee.

Update: Konkani Charitable Fund (KCF)

We engaged an attorney to formally incorporate and file papers for non profit status. A title search resulted in naming the corporation as "Konkani Charitable Fund Inc. ". We received State of California approval for this corporation on April 10th 2009. Following this we received an IRS identification number on 18th of May. With this approval we have now finalized our By Laws and are ready to file form 1023 for non profit stats by 15th of June. Approval could take up to six months if there are no issues that IRS can object to.

To date we have received $8000 in donations and have awarded $4000 to Anandashram. Once we get formal approval from IRS we will seek donations from Konkani Community. The implementation team has already developed a list of eligible Konkani organizations in India . The Board of Directors of Konkani Charitable fund are eager and anxious to move forward this worthy effort in an expeditious manner. I will keep you informed as we make progress.

Appeal: Join the KHABBAR KARES Email List

I get numerous appeals, mostly from India for a cause that is worthy to them. It could be for a scholarship fund; it could be to help a temple project; it could be an arts project; just to name a few. But, these are really dear to them. I publish all of them in Khabbar. Khabbar being a quarterly publication, sometimes, the urgency of the appeal is lost.

Recently, the response from Konkani families in North America for an appeal was overwhelming. The appeal was from the Gokarn Mutt Swamiji to get water samples from North America. It was accomplished even before I could publish it in Khabbar!

Hence, this idea came to me- If you are REALLY interested in helping, then join the "Khabbar Kares" email list. Any appeal I get, I will forward it to you. There is absolutely NO pressure. If you want to help, go ahead and if you don't, no feelings are hurt.

Contact khabbar@hotmail.com if you want to an elite member of Khabbar Kares!
